

SMART OR DUMB?

WHICH IS YOUR CITY & WHAT DO YOU WANT?

How informed are you about your events, shopping, city business and life in general? If you want to know something today you always reach for your Smartphone and attempt to Google™ what you need to know. What if the information reached out to you?

It is a Push, Pull World, you pushing for more information and when shopping the ability for information to pull you in positively. We have an enormous appetite for data and we all want it now! Our patience level has diminished to a level that is becoming obsessive clock watching and are demanding faster access to all.

ProxComm® is at the forefront of proprietary proximity communications capabilities globally reaching all citizens inexpensively, direct and in a timeframe, that will have you saying yes, I want it NOW!

With limited investment and a fast reacting ROI, we have monetized this unique ubiquitous solution and opportunity.

Nine (9) simple weeks from your city saying Yes and sooner than you hear the notification sound on your Smartphone, you will all be in a whole different Smart Communications World! It will grow from there as the infrastructure is in place!

Our global team does not speak gobbledygook and converse in down-to-earth logical terms in explaining how you can serve the citizens on all information fronts, including emergency services, events, retail shopping, opportunities and as a direct communication tool.

How Smart do you want your city and citizens to be?
